

ABSTRACT

A solid electrolytic capacitor is provided in which non-conductive particles are made to be present between a dielectric layer and an electrolyte layer. A second electrolyte layer is formed of a conductive polymer including graphite particles and non-conductive particles.